Recent Case Result

Our client Matthew N. was involved in a horrific head-on motor vehicle accident in Cobb County with a drunk driver. Matthew, a former Marine who had served for over 10 years, had recently been honorably discharged from the military when he began serving his community as a postal worker. Unfortunately, one day while driving his route, a group of intoxicated individuals crashed their car head-on into Matthew's post truck. Matthew's knee fractured, and he sustained other serious injuries. The insurance companies initially fought us on whether they should be responsible for the drunk driver, as they claimed he did not have permission to drive the vehicle.

We were able to successfully obtain evidence that showed the owner loaned him the car hours before the devastating crash occurred. We then faced arguments from Matthew's own USAA insurance that he was not as injured as we claimed and did deserve the uninsured motorist bodily injury coverage he purchased. After litigating the case for over a year, we were able to obtain the full $300,000.00 of coverage for Matthew.
