Recent Case Result

The toughest cases are often the least flashy and not necessarily the highest dollar cases. We settled just that type of case last year. The Client was in a terrible car accident: driving back from dropping her child off at school, our client stopped at a stop sign near her house. All of a sudden, a careless driver going approximately 50-60 mph slammed into the back of her car. The impact spun her car around, forced it off the road, and down into an embankment. Our client went to the hospital where she was diagnosed with a concussion, among other injuries. The insurance company called her after she got out of the hospital – but before she hired a lawyer and before she could even think straight – and made a low-ball offer. Our client didn't fully understand the offer, but agreed to it over the phone. It was only after that phone call with the insurance company that she called a lawyer. It was an uphill battle from the moment we got on the case. Oral agreements are enforceable in Georgia and the insurance company had recorded the conversation and was not willing to budge. Even so, we pushed them into litigation, proceeded through discovery and depositions, and eventually got them to put enough money on the table to cover all of our client's medical costs and put some money in her pocket as well. While it is not a settlement that you will see on a billboard, it made a huge difference in our client's life, and, because of that, it made a huge impact on us.

Why Hire A Georgia Attorney After a Car Accident?

Clients should not be scared or embarrassed to meet with a lawyer for an initial consultation. Some individuals believe there is a stigma associated with exploring a potential lawsuit – even when that initial meeting is free. It makes you wonder how many meritorious claims never see the light of day. Read On

"Shop With A Hero"

On Dec. 17, Geiger Legal Group, LLC supported the Dalton Police Department and Dalton Fire Department with their annual "Shop with a Hero" event. The event takes a number of underprivileged youth on a pre-Christmas shopping adventure to get some fun toys and some necessary items (clothing, shoes, etc.). GLG staff including Nancy Griffin, Lauren DaCamara, and attorney Christopher Brown were proud to support the participants, fire fighters, and police officers by providing them with lunch following the shopping. We look forward to supporting this important mission next year!
